HISTORICAL RECORD

OF THE

3RD ROYAL SURREY REGIMENT OF MILITIA.

---

THE Militia of England, its oldest constitutional A.D. armed force, had its origin in the reign of King Alfred, 871. A.D. 871-901.

In the 27th Henry II., A.D. 1154, the force was 1154. regulated and organized. This Act was confirmed in 13th Edward I., A.D. 1285. 1285.

Since the reign of Philip and Mary, A.D. 1553-1558, 1553. the Lords-Lieutenant have had charge of raising the militia of their respective counties, a certain quota being required from each in proportion to its population.

In the reign of Queen Elizabeth, A.D. 1558-1603, 1558. a militia of 80,000 men was raised.

In the reign of Charles I., A.D. 1642, Parliament 1642. had the control of the Militia given entirely into their hands, and the direction of the force was placed under certain commissioners.

1649. In the reign of Charles II., A.D. 1649-1685, the national Militia was re-established, and mustered and trained by regiments once a year for four days, and by companies four times a year for two days. Each man had to find his own ammunition. These regulations were found to be expensive, and the trainings were discontinued.

At this period the standing army was established, and from this time our present regular forces date their origin.

1756. In the reign of George II., A.D. 1756, in fear of a French invasion, an Act was passed for the embodiment of the Militia.

In the same reign, A.D. 1757, the Militia was raised in England and Wales to the number of 62,680, trained by regiments four times in the year.

1760. In the reign of George III., A.D. 1760 to 1820, the Militia was particularly prominent.

In 1783 the Militia raised in 1757 was disbanded.

In 1792 it was again partially embodied.

In 1794 measures were taken to augment the Militia.

In 1796 Mr. Pitt-proposed a supplementary Militia, or temporary increase of numbers.

1797. In 1797 a supplementary Militia of 60,000 was raised.

1798. In 1798 English Militia regiments were first allowed by law to volunteer into Ireland and assisted in quelling the rebellion which broke out in the summer of that year.

In the early part of this year, the 3RD ROYAL SURREY REGIMENT OF MILITIA had its origin. Up to this date the Militia of Surrey consisted of one regiment of twelve companies. It is variously referred to in the War Office papers as "The Royal Surrey," "The Surrey Regiment of Militia," "The Old Regiment of Surrey Militia." By a return to the War Office 1798. "Quarters of the Militia in Great Britain, 1st March, 1796," it appears to have been thus quartered:—seven companies at Hull, two at Beverley, one at Hornsea, and two at Scarborough Barracks; and by War Office Order, 21st May, 1798, "such part of the supplementary Militia for the County of Surrey, now assembled at Kingston, and intended as an augmentation to the Old Regiment of Surrey Militia," is ordered to march to Sunderland to "join the regiment."

The old Regiment had two supplementary battalions added in 1798, and on the 26th March, 1798, Lord Onslow—then Lord-Lieutenant of Surrey—writes to the Secretary of State for War for "directions as to the Supplementary Militia Act." The first officer gazetted to the 3rd Regiment was Colonel Sir George Glynn, Bart., whose commission bears date 26th April, 1798. The head-quarters of the regiment was fixed to be at Kingston-on-Thames, the original quarters of "The Old Surrey."

Subsequently, the head-quarters of "The Surrey Militia"—now the 1st Royal Surrey—were established at Richmond, and that of the 2nd Royal Surrey, or 1st Supplementary Battalion, at Guildford, which quarters these regiments still retain.

The 3rd Regiment consisted of eight companies, and the surgeon and assistant-surgeon, as well as the quartermaster and paymaster, were also company officers. The establishment was to be 32 sergeants, 18 drummers, 856 rank and file. The first private was enrolled in the regiment at Kingston-on-Thames, on 22nd July, 1798.

"No. 1. Private William Wond.

[It is a singular coincidence that the first private enrolled in the revived Regiment in 1853 was also in July,

1798. and the first colonel of the Regiment, Sir George Glynn, had his commission on the same day of the month as the first colonel of the revived Regiment, Colonel Challoner—the first, 26th April, 1798 ; the latter, 26th March, 1853.]

The Regiment was armed with the musket and bayonet (swords for the rank and file having been discontinued since 1746). The barrels of the arms were bright. The weight of the musket with bayonet was 11 lb. 4 oz. The weight of the bayonet was 1 lb. 2 oz. The length of the barrel of the musket, 3 ft. 3 in. The diameter of bore of barrel, .753 in. The charge of powder, 6 drs., F. G. Bullets,  $14\frac{1}{2}$  to the lb. Flints, 3 to every 60 rounds. (Percussion caps were not known till 1807, or used in our military arms till 1839.) The clothing was similar to that of the line at that period; but no reliable record of detail exists.

In "A History of the Dress of the British Soldier, by Lieut.-Col. John Luard," George III., 1760-1820, we find that hair was worn very long; the waists of the coat were long; the sashes tied over the hips. (In George the II.'s time the sash was worn over the shoulder). Pantaloon were tight at the waist and very large at the bottom of the legs.

The infantry officer at this period wore a felt cap; a jacket and epaulette or epaulettes, according to his rank; a field officer wearing two; a lieutenant-colonel had a crown on the straps; a major a star; a captain an epaulette on the right shoulder; a subaltern one on the left; there was also a difference in the size of the bullion.

In addition to Colonel Sir George Glynn, the officers first appointed to the Regiment were—

The agent to the Regiment was Mr. Despard Croasdaile, Silver Street, Golden Square.

The first "Monthly pay list and muster roll" was "from the 25th of April, 1798, to the 24th of May, 1798, both days inclusive."

By War Office letter on the 25th September, 1798, "The officer commanding 3rd Regiment Surrey Militia, Kingston, Surrey," was ordered to march a detachment

1798. to Croydon, "there to receive some arms appropriated to the said regiment, which they are to convey to Kingston," and in the pay list, 25th September to 24th October, 1798, is the following entry:—

"To hire of four waggons to carry arms from Croydon to Kingston, £2. 8s."

On the 27th September, 1798, the Regiment was ordered to march "from thence on Saturday, the 29th, to such adjacent unoccupied place or places in the county of Surrey as you shall judge most expedient, where they are to remain till Monday, 8th of October, and then return to their present quarters."

Under this order the Regiment marched to Esher and Cobham. Head-quarters and four companies were at Esher, and four companies at Cobham. The effective strength was—1 colonel, 4 captains, 10 lieutenants, 5 ensigns, 1 adjutant, 1 quartermaster, 1 surgeon, 1 assistant-surgeon (or "surgeon's mate") 24 sergeants, 15 drummers and fifers; 88 rank and file.

See "Monthly Return of the 3rd Surrey Regiment of Militia, commanded by Colonel Sir George Glynn, Bart., 1st Oct., 1798."

On the 1st Nov., 1798, a similar order was issued from the War Office, for the Regiment to march on Monday, the 12th November, and to remain till Friday, 23rd.

The Regiment marched to Richmond, and numbered 291 non-commissioned officers and men.

On the 21st November, 1798, the following order was issued:—

"It is His Majesty's pleasure that you cause the 3rd Regiment of Surrey Militia, on their return to Kingston, to be quartered, and proceed from thence according to the following route to Horsham Barracks, and remain, leaving at Kingston such a detachment of officers and non-commissioned officers as you may judge 1798. expedient, for the purpose of receiving recruits."

Wednesday, 28th Nov., 1798, Dorking.

Thursday, 29th Nov., 1798, Horsham Barracks.

"Wherein, &c., given, &c.,

W. O., 21st November, 1798.

By H. M. C.,

"Officer Commanding the 3rd Regiment of Surrey Militia, Richmond, Surrey."

This was the first long march of the regiment.

Captain Sewell was left at the depôt at Kingston, with 3 sergeants, 2 corporals, and 10 privates.

The state of the Regiment at Horsham Barracks on 1st December, 1798, was—

One colonel, 4 captains, 7 lieutenants, 3 ensigns, 1 adjutant, 1 quartermaster, 1 surgeon, 1 assistant-surgeon, 21 sergeants, 15 drummers, 256 effective rank and file. 9 were sick in hospital, 3 on command. Total, 268 rank and file. Six officers were absent on leave.

There appears to have been great difficulty in completing the battalion:—

On 7th November, 1798, Lord Onslow writes to Mr. Dundas, then Secretary-at-War, and notes "the supplementary battalion of Surrey Militia, commanded by Sir George Glynn," and complains of "the great difficulty attending the completing of it."

On 24th November, 1798, the magistrates at Croydon address Mr. Dundas; complain of "the expense of raising the supplementary militia, and the almost impossibility of keeping the quota complete."

"The 3rd Regiment of Militia has been embodied some months, and have at this time not quite 300 men, being deficient, as we understand, nearly 800."

1798. In December, 1798, Quartermaster R. Lloyd resigned; also Ensign Holland.

The following return is not without interest:—

The Regiment remained at Horsham in January, February, March, April, and May.

In April, Ensign Charles Caleb Chesterman was appointed.

In May, Ensign Phillip Townsend was appointed.

On the 1st June, 1799, the head-quarters were at 1799. Dover Town: four companies were at Dover Town Barracks, three at Arch-cliff Fort, one at Guildford Fort. The state of the Regiment was 1 colonel, 1 lieut.-colonel, 4 captains, 8 lieutenants, 5 ensigns, 1 adjutant, 1 quartermaster, 1 assistant-surgeon, 23 sergeants, 16 drummers, 321 effective rank and file; 15 were sick in hospital, 4 on command—total 340. 3 officers absent on leave.

In August, Lieutenant A. McDonald was transferred to the 17th foot. Captain Sir Joseph Mawbey resigned, also Lieutenant Keene.

In the month ending 24th September, Ensign Thomas Benson was appointed. Ensigns J. J. Welbank and George Hasleham were promoted to Lieutenants. Captain George Price was appointed and posted to the Light Company. Captain Evelyn resigned.

By return made on the 2nd August of "the number who have volunteered to serve in the undermentioned regular regiments" we have—13 men to the 9th foot, 3 to the 16th, 56 to the 17th, 1 to the 25th, 8 to the 31st, 3 to the 40th—total 84, "being one-fourth of the present state of the Regiment." This return is signed by Colonel Sir George Glynn.

In the month ending 24th October, Ensigns Nicholas 1799. Batson and Samuel G. Poole were appointed, also Captain George Storey.

At the end of October the Regiment was moved to Hastings, and the state on the 1st November was—1 lieut.-colonel, 4 captains, 6 lieutenants, 5 ensigns, 1 adjutant, 1 quartermaster, 1 assistant-surgeon, 13 sergeants, 14 drummers, 164 effective rank and file, 6 sick in hospital, 2 on command, 6 on furlough—total, 178. 7 officers absent.

In December, 1799, the Regiment was moved back to Kingston under the following order:—"It is His Majesty's pleasure that the 3rd Surrey Militia at Hastings to march from thence, according to the routes annexed, to Kingston and Hampton Wick.

The Regiment, on its return to head-quarters, was disbanded under the Acts passed for the reduction of the Militia, in 39 Geo. III., 13th July, 1799, and 8th October, 1799, and ceased to exist on the 24th December. A large number of the men were transferred to the 1799. 2nd Surrey. And of the officers, Captain Sewell and Ensign Varden were transferred to the 2nd Surrey. Captain Whittaker and Ensign Chesterman were appointed to the 9th Foot.

By the Act of 8th October it was allowed "that a company of militia, consisting of not less than 80 men, 3 sergeants, 4 corporals, and 1 drummer to each 80, with a captain, lieutenant and ensign, may volunteer to serve in the regular army, and continue their rank as temporary, and, if reduced, to have half-pay of their militia rank. And His Majesty may make battalions of such companies, and appoint field officers, and they shall be subject to service to the same regulations as regiments of the line, and the privates shall receive the same bounty as if they had been discharged and volunteered to the line." The bounty was ten guineas.

The following correspondence occurred with reference to the Regiment in this year.

Lord Onslow writes to "Mr. Huskinson for Mr. Dundas," from "Plymouth Dock, 13th Aug., 1799." He asks for information "to enable me to get my three regiments of militia to rights. * * They have each of them, very much to my satisfaction and their own honour, furnished their quota to the line, which reduces our county numbers to exactly 1800. I hope I may be allowed to divide—which I can easily and immediately do—this number equally among the three, which will make them 600 each, and will satisfy them all."

Colonel Glynn acknowledges His Majesty's approval of the Regiment in the following letter:—

"Rye, August 23, 1799.

"Sir,—I have communicated the contents of your letter of yesterday, and am to say that the Colonel and all the officers of the 3rd Surrey Militia feel them"selves highly gratified in receiving his Majesty's 1799.

"approbation of their conduct, and which it will be "their first ambition to deserve upon every occasion
"that may offer. The return required was sent by "yesterday's post.

"I have the honor to be, Sir,

"Your most faithful and

"Obedient humble servant,

"GEO. GLYNN, Colonel,

"3rd Surrey Militia."

Lord Onslow writes to Mr. Huskinson from Plymouth Dock, 13th October, 1799, applying that the 2nd Surrey Regiment be not disbanded, and suggests that as the quota of the county by the recent Act is 1,103, it be divided into two regiments.

In 1799 there were 160 regiments of militia in England, and in addition 30 fencible cavalry; 42 fencible infantry, and 100,000 men, invalid and volunteer corps.

In August and September, 1801, the militia was 1801. partially re-embodied.

From this period two regiments of militia only were retained in Surrey, and were embodied till the general peace, 1815.

In 1807 the militia amounted to 94,202 men, and the 1807. total estimate for militia service was £4,203,727. 5s. 5d.

In 1808, Lord Castlereagh proposed a local militia, 1808. which was raised in the succeeding year to the number of 200,000 men, to be trained 28 days annually; of this force several regiments existed in Surrey, and the 4th local regiment was commanded by Col. Sir Joseph Mawbey, Bart., formerly captain in the 3rd Royal Surrey Militia, and under whom Colonel Challoner served as major in 1813.

1852. On the revival of the militia in 1852, and in consequence of the increase of population in several counties, of which Surrey was one, additional regiments were reinstated, and among them the 3rd Royal Surrey.

Lieut.-Colonel T. C. B. Challoner, an officer of experience, having been a field officer of local militia in 1813, and of some years previous service in the 1st Dragoon Guards, was charged with reorganising the Regiment, by commission bearing date 26th March, 1853, in which he was ably assisted by Captain E. L. Parratt, Captain the 2nd Royal Surrey Regiment, and of 12 years' previous service in the 85th Light Infantry of the line, who was commissioned Captain and Adjutant 19th April, 1853, and was the second officer gazetted to the Regiment. The Earl of Lovelace was Lord Lieutenant.

The establishment to be as follows:—"1 lieut.-colonel commandant, 2 majors, 10 captains, 10 lieutenants, 10 ensigns, 1 adjutant, 1 quartermaster, 1 surgeon, 1 assistant-surgeon, 1 sergeant-major, 33 sergeants, 33 corporals, 10 drummers, 990 privates."

The Regiment is recruited chiefly from Camberwell, Clapham, Brixton, Peckham, and Walworth, the rendezvous for these districts being the Sessions House, Newington Causeway, and from Cheam, Ewell, Banstead, Epsom, Malden, Kingston, Thames Ditton, Esher, &c., recruits ~~being taken at the~~ original headquarters of the Regiment, Kingston-on-Thames, the old House of Correction, in Eden Street, having been converted into barracks.

The first man was enlisted at Kingston-on-Thames on the 9th July, 1853. “No. 1, Private Michael Sullivan.”

The expense of raising a recruit is 18s. 6d., thus caused:—1s. for attestation; 5s. fee to bringer; 10s. bounty; 2s. 6d. fee for medical inspection.

Each recruit has to produce a certificate signed by a householder, a policeman, and the bringer, thus:—

“ We certify that every inquiry has been made “ respecting the volunteer . . . . ., now brought,
“ that he bears a respectable character, and is well known

1853. A man is enlisted for 5 years; the yearly bounty is £1. 1s. If re-attested after four trainings, he receives 10s. extra gratuity each year, and on re-engagement, the balance of his bounty, namely, £1. 6s. A free kit is supplied to him, which he has to keep complete. And each year, 1 pair of boots, 2 pairs of socks, and 2 cotton shirts, which he takes with him at the end of the training. He is also entitled to his old uniform at the end of his engagement.

The Regiment was first armed with the old service percussion musket (1842), in use in 1853 by the majority of the regiments of the line, the weight of which was, with the bayonet, 11 lbs. 6 oz.; length, with bayonet fixed, 6 ft.; diameter of the bore, .753 in.; charge, powder, 4½ drs.; bullet, 14½ to the pound.

The clothing was similar to that of the line, silver being in most cases substituted for gold.

The Regiment, being "Royal," has blue facings and staff-pattern lace. The officers wore scarlet coatee and epaulettes (wings for the flank companies), crimson silk sashes worn round the waist, black trowsers with scarlet welt down outer seams, beaver shako and plate, a star of eight points, and crown, five inches wide; over this, a star of brilliants; above, a wreath of oak leaves and acorns, and garter of blue enamel with the words "3rd Royal Surrey Regiment," and the royal cypher, gilt; silver buttons; device, a star of eight points and crown; a garter, with the words "3rd Royal Surrey," and the royal cypher; shoulder sword-belt of white leather and plate; the sword, regulation infantry pattern, gilt hilt; scabbard, leather, with gilt mountings, brass for field officers, steel for adjutant, gold sword-knot.

In undress—a blue frock coat, with frogs and black lace; black waist-belt for sword, black leather sword-knot, forage cap of blue cloth with scarlet band, badge 1853, of silver oak leaves and acorns surmounted by a crown, and on the front the monogram R.S.M. and numeral III.; the flank companies wore respectively a grenade and a bugle above the ornament.

At mess—a scarlet shell-jacket, blue facings, silver shoulder-knots, white waistcoat with five regimental buttons; the jacket worn open, and black silk necktie.

The clothing issued for the men in August, 1853, was, scarlet coatee and worsted epaulettes, black trowsers with scarlet welt in seam, silver buttons, white belts, worsted cap, and silver scroll with words “3rd Royal Surrey Militia.”

In consequence of a petition, signed by the Mayor and Corporation of Kingston, to the authorities, stating that cholera was raging in the localities from which the men were enlisted, the Regiment was not called up for training in 1853.

The officers first appointed, in addition to the Commandant and Adjutant, were—

By R. O., 12th Nov., 1853, Lieutenant Seawell was posted to No. 3.

A Roll of the officers of the Regiment, with the date of appointment (taken from the army lists and War Office papers) of each officer is hereunto appended, also a tabular statement of the prices of regimental necessaries, &c., from the date of the revival of the Regiment.

1854. At the commencement of the Crimean War the Regiment assembled for its first training, at headquarters, on the 24th April, 1854, till 21st May (28 days). The men wore the coatee, and carried the old 1854. musket.

The officers present were—Colonel Challoner, Majors Spicer and Terry; Captains, G. Brown, Stringer, Hon. G. Mostyn, Blunt, Barclay, Evelyn, Rintoul, Daniell, Austen; Lieutenants, Kirk, Manning, Vivian, Seawell, Schuster, Green, Bent; Captain and Adjutant Parratt, Surgeon Coleman, Assistant-Surgeon Mitchell.

The number of men enlisted in 1853 and to April 1854 was 1,138; of these, only 332 including the permanent staff assembled for training, in consequence of from 300 to 400 men having enlisted fraudulently into the 19th Regiment of the line, then quartered at the Tower of London (most of whom were afterwards traced), and others having been properly transferred to the regular forces.

It may be noted here that, during the Crimean War and the Indian Mutiny, this Regiment has either passed through its ranks or enlisted by its staff upwards of 3,000 men for the regular forces, a very large number of whom went to the light division, whose gallant deeds are matters of history.

Of the 16,000 British troops who fought and won at Talavera, the greater part were Militiamen recently drafted, and many bore the accoutrements of their former corps (Napier, Vol. 2.)

Waterloo was also fought and won by troops similarly composed. "The Guardsmen fought in their Surrey Militia jackets ("Voice from Waterloo," Sergt.-Major Cotton, p. 10.)

On the 19th May, 1854, the Regiment paraded for its first inspection by Colonel Bush, Inspecting Field Officer of the recruiting staff, London District. The colours were presented by Miss Sumner, daughter of the Bishop of Winchester; they were received and carried 1854. by Lieutenants Manning and Vivian. The ceremony of consecration was performed by the Bishop.

Subsequently the officers entertained a large company of the gentry of the county at a Dejeuner at the Mess (which was established at the Griffin Hotel, Mr. John Williams, landlord), and gave a Ball in the evening, at which nearly 400 were present.

The band was established, and Drum Major Duffell appointed by R. O., 7th September, 1854.

On 10th November, 1854, the permanent staff paraded in obedience to instructions from the War Office, and marched round the Town, with fife and drum beating up for recruits.

In this year, the barracks were arranged and additions made.

The following officers were appointed—Captain F. L. Austen, 20th January; Lieutenant H. Devas (who never joined), 24th January; Lieutenants S. L. Schuster, A. Green, W. Bent, on 28th March.

Captain G. Brown resigned.

By R. O., 31st January, 1854, Captain Daniell was posted to No. 7 Company, and Captain Austen to No. 8.

1855. The Regiment, clothed as in 1854, assembled for training on 23rd April, for 21 days, till 13th May, and consisted of 433 men including the permanent staff.

The following officers were present:—Colonel Chaloner; Majors Spicer and Terry; Captains Stringer, Hon. G. Mostyn, Blunt, Barclay, Evelyn, Rintoul, Daniell, Austen, Stewart; Lieutenants Kirk, Manning, Seawell, Vivian, Schuster, Bent, Utterton, Platt; Ensigns Elyard, Smith, Iles, Binney; Captain and Adjutant Parratt; Surgeon Coleman; Mr. H. Wilkin, acting assistant-surgeon.

The Regiment paraded for inspection on the 12th

May (but through some mistake at the War Department 1855. no official inspection was made).

Since the training, 1854—

555 men were enlisted.

21 „ discharged.

136 „ passed to the line.

The following officers were appointed:—

No officers were appointed.

Captain Rintoul was transferred to 4th Dragoon Guards as Cornet on 25th January, taking 100 men.

The following officers resigned :—

Lieutenants Kirk, Bent and Vivian; Ensign Smith; Assistant-Surgeon Mitchell.

1857.    The Regiment assembled for 21 days' training, on 7th September, and was inspected on the 25th September by Colonel Douglas, Inspector-General of Militia. The men wore the old clothing and arms; but the officers' undress was altered to a plain, double-breasted, blue frock-coat, with two rows of silver buttons, eight in each down the front at equal distances; three on each sleeve, and three on each skirt; the sash worn over the left shoulder, and a white enamelled leather waist-belt and sling was substituted for the shoulder sword-belt. Officers wore undress at the parades and inspection of of the Regiment.

At this period, the coattee was abandoned through the service generally, and a double-breasted tunic substituted. The sash was worn over the shoulder, and the white waist-belt used on all occasions. The Regiment consisted of 657 men, including the permanent staff. The officers present were:—Colonel Challoner; Majors Spicer and Terry; Captains Stringer, Hon. G. Mostyn, Blunt, Barclay, Evelyn, Daniell, Austen, Stewart; Lieutenants Manning, Seawell, Schuster, Platt; Ensigns L. Flower, Eicke, Walpole, Murray; Captain and Adjutant Parratt; Surgeon Coleman; Assistant Surgeon Wilkin.

Since the training of 1856—

21 „ discharged.

74 „ passed to the line.

The following officers were appointed—

Ensign L. Flower	. . . . .	15th June.
„ J. Eicke	. . . . .	4th Sept.
„ F. Goulburn (who never joined)	. . . . .	21st Sept.
„ F. G. Walpole	. . . . .	21st Sept.
„ A. W. Murray	. . . . .	22nd Sept.
Assistant-Surgeon H. C. Wilkin	. . . . .	19th Oct.

Previously to the training of the Regiment, the Adjutant was employed as subdivision officer of Pensioners on the recruiting service for the army, under War Office authority, 27/General No./39, 15th August, 1867.

During the training, the Regiment made an offer of its services to the Government, several regiments of militia being then embodied and doing garrison duty in Great Britain in place of regiments of the line engaged in suppressing the Indian mutiny.

The following correspondence with the War Office took place:—

*“ Head Quarters, Kingston-on-Thames,
“ 18th September, 1857.*

“ My Lord—I have the honour to inform your “ lordship that the 3rd Royal Surrey Militia, under my “ command, is now out for training and exercise at their “ head quarters, at Kingston-on-Thames. The present “ strength of the Regiment, including all ranks, is up“ wards of six hundred. It is the wish of the majority
“ of the officers that the Regiment should be embodied,
“ provided your lordship should approve of it, and I am

1857. "quite willing myself to accede to their wishes, and
 "have the honour to remain,

"Your lordship's most obedient servant,

"C. B. CHALLONER,

"Lt.-Colonel Commandant.

"The Right Honourable

"Secretary of State for War."

The day after the men of the Regiment were paid off, the following answer was received at head quarters:—

"A/3 Surrey, /126.

"War Office, Pall Mall, S.W.

"28th September, 1857.

"Sir—I am directed by Lord Panmure to ac-
 "knowledge the receipt of your letter of the 18th inst.,
 "and to express to you the thanks of Her Majesty's "Government, for the offer of service made by you on "behalf of the Regiment under your command.

"I have the honour to be, Sir,

"Your obedient servant,

"J. R. GODLEY.

"The Officer Commanding,

"3rd Surrey Militia."

The Regiment, since its revival, has not been embodied, and in consequence thereof is not permitted to have the pioneers' appointments, nor has any allowance been made towards the officers' mess kit.

It was ordered that a Militiaman may purchase his discharge on payment of 18s. 6d., but if a re-enrolled man (that is after 4 years' service), he must pay £2. 4s. 6d., and find a substitute.

If a man be found to have enlisted fraudulently into the regular forces, he is to be put under stoppages of 1d. a day for 18 months, by War Office authority, A/Militia/911, 8th February, 1866.

Assistant-Surgeon Bryant was appointed vice Wilkin on the 2nd March.

Lieut. H. D. Terry was transferred to the 1st battalion 9th Foot on the 8th May.

Captain Blunt resigned 6th March.

Lieut. Maule (who never joined the Regiment for duty) resigned 23rd March.

The Colonel and Officers presented Captain and Adjutant Parratt with a piece of plate, bearing the following inscription:—

“ Souvenir from the Colonel and Officers of the 3rd
“ Royal Surrey Regiment of Militia, to their friend
“ and Adjutant, Captain Evelyn Latimer Parratt, May, “ 1866, in token of their esteem, on the occasion of his “ marriage.”

1867. The Regiment assembled for 27 days' training on 15th April, and was inspected on the 10th May by Colonel Pipon, Inspector-General of Militia. It consisted of 659 men, including the permanent staff, with the following officers :—Colonel Challoner; Majors Terry and Stringer; Captains Hon. G. pointed honorary Colonel . . . 2nd Nov.

Major Terry promoted to Lieutenant-Colonel
Commandant . . . . . 2nd Nov.

Captain the Hon. G. C. Mostyn promoted to Major . . . . . 26th Dec.

Black serge trowsers were substituted for blue.
Stitched blue cloth shakoes substituted for felt.

The blue undress frock coat abandoned, and a new jacket, known as the patrol jacket, substituted. The jacket was not used by the officers of the Regiment on 1867. parade this year.

Steel scabbards, previously worn only by Instructors of Musketry and Adjutants, were adopted throughout the entire service by all officers under the rank of major. By Horse Guards Circular, "General No. 389, clothing/ "4, 1866/31st December, 1866."

In December, 27 of the 33 short Enfields issued to the sergeants in 1861 were exchanged for short Enfields, converted into breech loaders after Snider's patent. This arm has the breech closed with a steel block fitting into a shoe at the end of the barrel, and working on a hinge in front of the hammer. The weight of the arm and ammunition remains practically unaltered.

By War Office Circular, 20th August, 1867, the pay of the permanent staff was again increased to—

	s.	d.
Sergeant-Major . . . . . per day	3	2
Quartermaster Sergeant . . . . . "	2	8
All other Sergeants . . . . . "	2	0

Ditto if under 16 . . . . . "	1	0

2d. a day was also added to the daily pay of the rank and file.

On 20th August, 1867, the following measure passed the Houses of Parliament, 30 and 31 Victoria, cap. 111:

"An Act to form a reserve of men in the Militia to "join Her Majesty's Army in the event of war."

By War Office authority, A/Militia/1,076, 16th October, 1867, it was ordered that all Militia Regiments should enrol recruits up to their full strength.

By letter of same date, the Secretary of State for War thinks it advisable that only half the number should be enrolled in one year, 1868. The Regiment assembled at head quarters for training, on the 20th April, and was inspected on the 14th May by Colonel The Hon. W. J. Colville, Assistant Inspector of Reserve Forces.

It consisted of 753 men, including the permanent staff, with the following officers:—

Lieut.-Colonel Terry; Major Hon. G. Mostyn; Captains Evelyn, Daniell, Flower (Instructor of Musketry), Webb, Brown, Beckford, Fellowes, Rough; Lieutenants Tottenham and Nugent; Captain and Adjutant Parratt; Surgeon Coleman; Assistant-Surgeon Bryant; Ensign W. Terry, 87th Fusiliers, and Ensign Jenner, 54th Regiment, were temporarily attached to the Regiment for duty during the training, in consequence of the scarcity of officers. It was from the same cause that the Regiment was not sent to Aldershot with the other regiments in the county for the training of 1867. At the inspection of the Regiment, Lieutenant Courtenay Terry, 60th Rifles, acted as Aide-de-camp to the Inspecting Officer.

Since the training of 1867—

221 men were recruited.

103 „ re-attested.

26 „ discharged.

The first and third companies, exclusive of recruits, passed through the drilled soldiers' course of musketry instruction under Captain Flower, and in their target practice, which was carried through the first period, their average (50·83) was higher than that of the regiments of the line quartered at Aldershot during the annual course (1868) by over 9 points.

The Regiment was for the first time trained in the bayonet exercise, which it performed at the inspection, taking the word from Capt. Parratt.

The Regiment was also exercised in Light Infantry 1868. drill.

The blue frock-coat was entirely abandoned for undress, and the patrol jacket substituted. This jacket is of blue cloth, and ornamented with braid and loops of cord; no sash is used, and the sword-belt worn under the jacket.

The white mess-waistcoat was discontinued, and one of blue cloth, ornamented with silver braid and four regimental buttons, substituted.

Alterations were made in the arrangement of lace on the tunic, and lace sashes, sword-belts, and stripes for trowser seams sanctioned. The extra sash, &c., to be worn at levees, balls, &c.

The officers, past and present, entertained Colonel Challoner at dinner at their mess on 27th April, and presented him with a silver and silver-gilt inkstand, as a souvenir on his retirement.

The officers also entertained the neighbouring gentry at two evening parties, in their Mess-rooms.

Athletic Sports were organised for the men in the Barrack Parade Ground.

Lieut. Fellowes was promoted to Capt. . 14th Jan.

Capt. W. H. Rough, from Hon. Artillery
Company of London, was appointed

Capt. . . . . 16th March.

ANDREW GREEN.

Lieutenant, 3rd Royal Surrey Militia . 24 Mar., 1854
 Transferred to Rifle Brigade, 3rd Battalion . 30 Mar., 1855

The following are Mr. (now Major) Green's services, after appointment to the Rifle Brigade :—

Ensign . . . . . 30 Mar., 1855
 Lieutenant . . . . . 10 Sept., 1855
 Captain . . . . . 4 Aug., 1863
 Brevet-Major . . . . . 12 July, 1864

Major Green served in the Indian Campaign of 1857-58, including the battle of Cawnpore, 6th December, 1857. Operations in the Doab. Siege and capture of Lucknow. Action of Nawabgunge, and commanded the detachment of riflemen with Sir R. Barker's column at Jamo. Dangerously wounded, 14 sabre cuts, and one gun shot wound ; left arm and right thumb amputated.

Mentioned in Lord Clyde's despatch for marked gallantry, and thanked by the Governor-General in Council (medal and clasp).

The detail of his severe wounds is given in the following extract from War Office Memorandum :—

“ LIEUTENANT A. GREEN, 3rd Battalion, Rifle Brigade.—Very numerous wounds received in action at Sundala on the 8th of October, 1858, namely, two on the head, one of which penetrated deeply the left parietal and frontal bones, from which dead portions subsequently came away. Three other sabre wounds were inflicted on his back and right side. Amputation of his left fore arm became necessary on account of a very severe wound above the wrist, and his right thumb had also to be amputated from further injury. He also received a wound on the same occasion of the right fore arm, extending nearly from the elbow to the wrist, and dividing several of the flexor tendons. On the right hip a transverse sabre wound, extending eight or nine inches, dividing the great glutial muscle, and on the same limb he received a severe wound along the outer side of the calf. Also on the left leg a cut along the tibia. He is affected with deafness consequent on the wounds of the head. His wounds were most severe and dangerous—they are now healed.—London, 20th April, 1859.”
